Responses

What could CE Midlands do more of?

thought leadership and leadership dinners

Influence Government Policy

More case studies of best practice

Client side focus

Better representation in the East Midlands, A dedicated lead for East Mids (paid), more clients, more supply chain, more informal networking events open to all potentially free with a view widening the membership

What training employers are short of Matching service for business challenges & solutions.

To be honest, happy with coverage

Events in the East Midlands have been lacking but seem to be starting to happen. The Midlands Summit is also always in the West Midlands

Sharing the knowledge that we have with our wider supply chains, consultants, etc. to ensure that "a rising tide lifts all boats" and not just those directly involved with the CE Midlands initiative.

Additional meetings around our county

Public events with guest speakers like the Summit

Face to face events

More clarity as to how CEM fits in with CE as a whole, does membership give access to other CE groups across the UK and the national CE

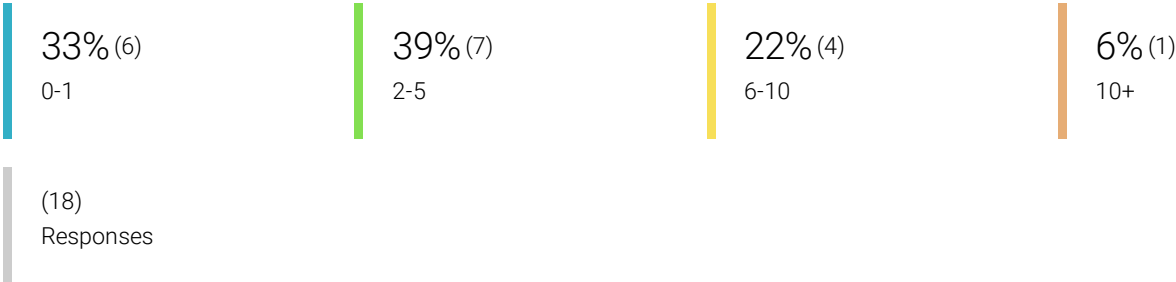

Influence, as a voice for the sector CE is an great advocate already but still more needed

Think we need more collaboration between nearby clubs, for example, the East Midlands and Lincolnshire clubs could certainly do more together.

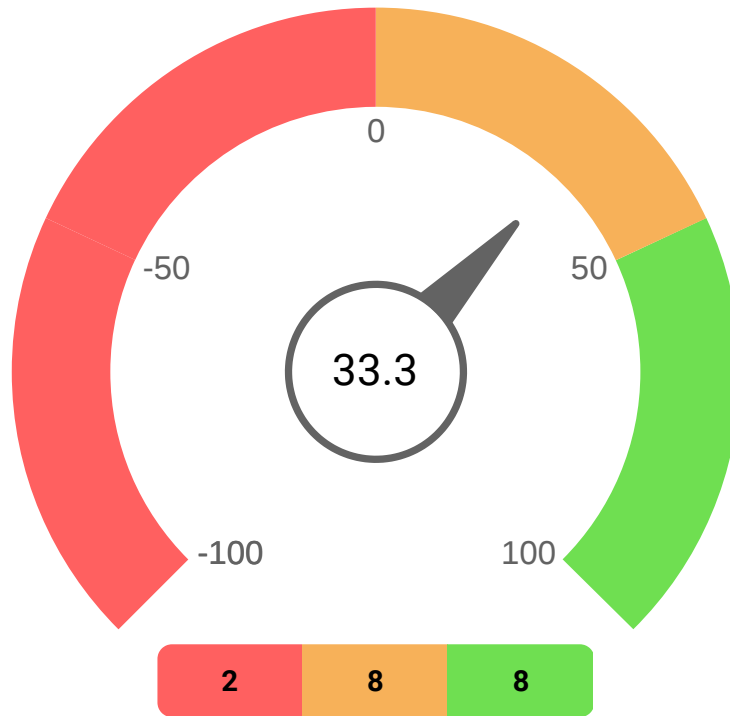

To highlight with all building & construction project what been done to contribute to the 2030 Climate Emergency objectives

Mentoring scheme for construction undergraduates

How many people from your organisation engage with CE Midlands?

How likely are you to recommend CE Midlands to others?

Any final comments or thoughts for us to consider in terms of maximising our member value?

More surveys like this please!

Be more obvious / open / promote about any lobbying that takes place

Thank you for your support

Grow the membership

More thought leadership collateral

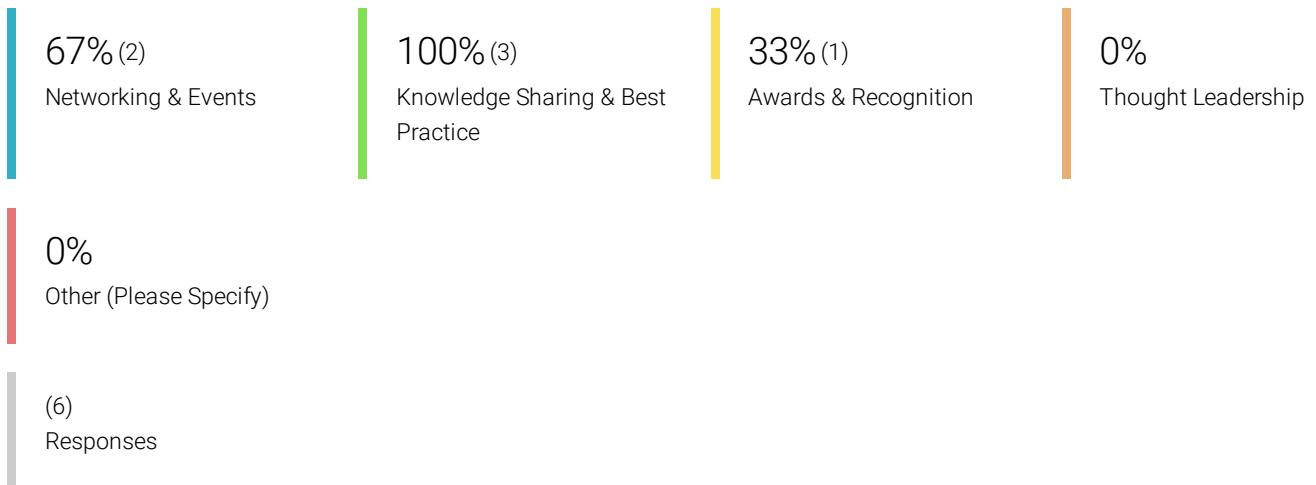

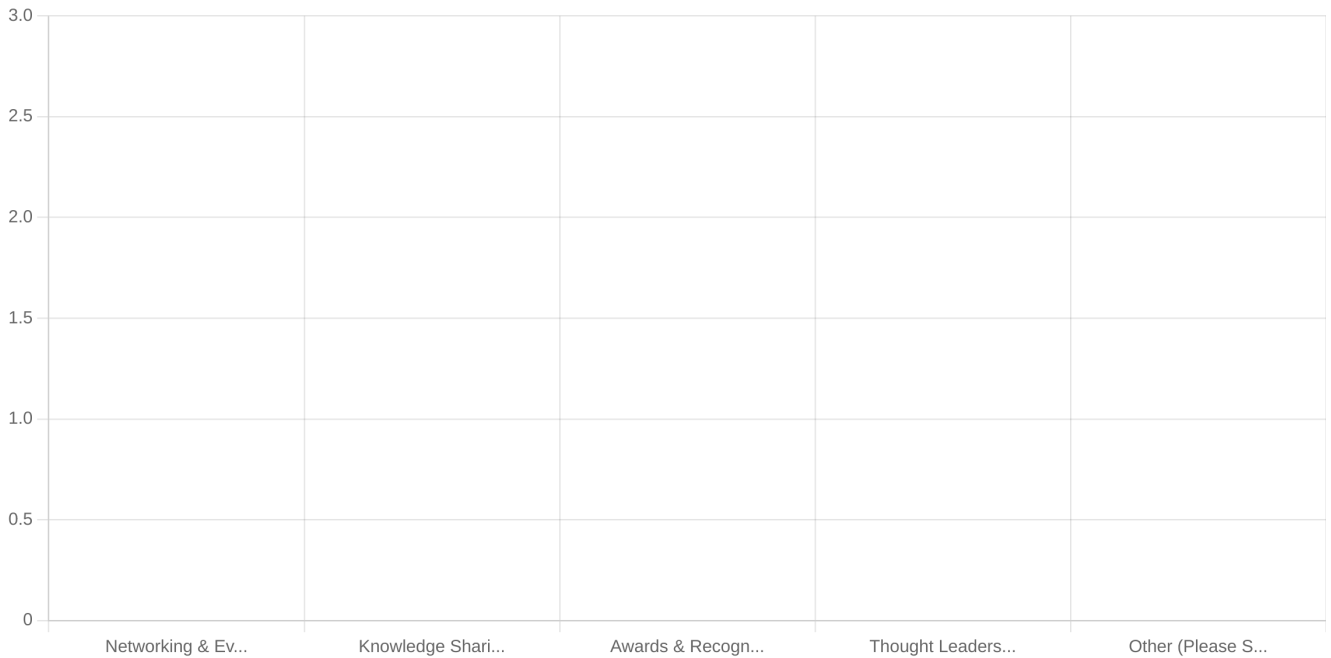

Less frequent events, more quality perhaps? More talks/ Site visits from those engaging in best practice?

Establish a 10 Point Climate Emergency Champions Project
